NO GRAPES ON THE VINE

(Habakkuk 3:16-19)

(3:16) I have _____ (accepts reality)

"Hard times are coming" > _____ I will _____ (more to the story)

"Justice will come" > _____

(3:17) _____ ... complete disaster and hardship [financial/physical]

(3:18) _____ ... triumph and delight [spiritual/emotional]

God is in the "Yet"

YET is a word that must drive the Devil crazy. He does all he can, employs every imaginable evil.

Then someone says... Nevertheless! In spite of this!

YET is a tiny conjunction, but it contains the miraculous power of God.

It is a defiance of the odds, a victory of the will.

It means that there exists something so strong that no weight can crush it.

It means that the end of the story cannot be prejudged by the circumstance, the flavor cannot always be predicted from the ingredients.

YET shifts reality from the expected to the unexpected. It describes something that ignores logic. • afraid yet filled with joy (Mt. 28:8)

- those who have not seen and yet have believed (Jn. 20:29)

- yet on the third day he will be raised (Mt. 20:19)
